

The O.C. season 2

24 episodes.

All in all, season two was only made up with fillers and fanservice. Too much fanservice. The finale did not give me the same as the 1st season finale did. I am rather disappointed, I was looking forward to so much more. Hearing that Jimmy would be back, I expected so much more, I dont know what I expected. But I remember him as a great character, now when he returned he immediately is back with his old family, and everything is fine. The funeral of Caleb was nothing big, he had deserved a better one. He used to be a great character of the show, allthough his skills as a bad person has lacked during the 2nd season. Ryan is back on track with being bad, at least for the moment. Argh, I can't write anymore about this, I feel like it's wasting time. The O.C. is doomed to repeat itself! I should have waited and watched it all in a marathon, like I did with the first season. Shows are so much greater then!
